

Communities:	Who is considered an authority in this type of community and why?	Through what ways/information formats do each of these groups communicate their ideas and knowledge?	Where do these communities get information/what constitutes valid evidence in this community	For what purpose, needs or questions would you seek out information from this community?	What advantages as well as difficulties or challenges might there be to using information from this community:
Wikipedia
Gallery
Museum
Academic Indigenous

How might the requirements of scholarly publications exclude native perspectives and knowledge?
